

WHAT IS ACCIDENTIAL ART?

“As a photographer, I use the capabilities of technology, distort reality, alienate, emphasize to change ‘Sehgewohnheiten’ – follow the trail of light, colors, lines and geometry - search and record and discover and consecrate that which is otherwise lurking.

Art mostly happens purely by chance. It is there, but unseen, surrounding us in our daily life. People create artistry every day, predominately unintentionally, by doing everyday things. We do not perceive its beauty. We are blinded by our routine context. And it is important the we learn to sharpen our senses and become au courant with our surroundings.

Art which is found on power boxes, on construction machines, on old weathered billboards and in house entrances.“

BIOGRAPHY

GG Green born in Philadelphia with German and English parents and spending most of his childhood in the Chicago area, before moving to Munich, Germany in 1977, has always been in a gray zone between three similar but distinctly differing cultures. One could say that GG Green is a Mid-Atlantic-Schizophrenic. At 14 years of age, the discovery technology in the form of old vacuum tube radios, programming multi-room sized computers, and at the same time photography as form visual communication and expression, has given him a deep and fundamental fascination in how communication works on many differing levels.
